Guest Speaker Noah Seidel of Self Advocates in Leadership (SAIL) will talk about his own education, self-determination, and self advocacy.

Noah Seidel is the statewide Self Advocacy Coordinator for the Arc of Washington State. Through Self Advocates in Leadership (SAIL) and other ventures he supports individuals and groups in becoming leaders who create positive changes in our service systems and communities.

Noah attended school in the Bellevue School district where he had an IEP while taking mainstream classes. Noah went on to receive his Bachelor's Degree from the University of Washington studying Disability Studies, Political Science, and Comparative History of Ideas. Noah was active in his IEP process and had very supportive parents. Noah's schooling taught him that having equal opportunities was not going to be a given and that he would have to advocate for his rights. Those lessons have carried onto the work he does now.

HERITAGE NIGHT THANK YOU

Once again, Heritage Night has ended with success. Rockwell has students from many countries in the world, so Heritage Night is a great place for sharing the rich cultures amongst us. For families coming from outside the US, the Rockwell culture to welcome students from all over the world, is a true blessing.

We would like to thank all the booth sponsors, performers, children who participated in Show & Tell, volunteers and guests, for their cooperation. The booths and performances were all wonderful.

We would like to send special thanks to people who helped us make this a successful event: Angie Ballas, Stacy Hatch, Taunya Covington, Sonoko Kambara, Ms. Gomez, Mr. Scott and Mrs. Mobley.

Thank you to the Safety Patrol Students who volunteered their time to patrol the library!

Thank you!
